

MOVIN' AROUND THE WORLD

As we explore Our Big Neighborhood, we're excited to celebrate Seattle's waterfront, an important place where we can gather and enjoy the city and sound. Join Northwest Folklife and Friends of Waterfront Seattle in learning and playing!

Did You Know...

The Waterfront was originally site of culture and commerce for the Duwamish people, who have been living here since time immemorial. In the beginning of 20th century, Japanese American farmers sold their produce at the nearby Pike Place Market.

Seattle is a hub of arts and cultures from around the world and many communities have worked and played on and near the Waterfront. We invite you to learn more about these stories at nwfolklife.org/obn
